Therefore, in order to-promote the constitutional right of equality and the exercise of true democracy;

eliminate unfair discrimination in employment;

ensure the implementation of employment equity to redress the effects of discrimination;

achieve a diverse workforce broadly representative of our people;

promote economic development and efficiency in the workforce; and give effect to the obligations of the Republic as a member of the International Labour Organisation,

BE IT ENACTED by the Parliament of the Republic of South Africa as follows:-

Return to table of contents

Elimination of unfair discrimination

5. Every employer must take steps to promote equal opportunity in the workplace by eliminating unfair discrimination in any employment policy or practice.

1. These persons are not defined as "employees" under the Labour Relations Act. However, they could bring unfair discrimination matters before the Constitutional Court, or lodge complaints with the Human Rights Commission.

Prohibition of unfair discrimination

6. (1) No person may unfairly discriminate, directly or indirectly, against an employee, in any employment policy or practice, on one or more grounds, including race, gender, sex, pregnancy, marital status, family responsibility, ethnic or social origin, colour, sexual orientation, age, disability, religion, conscience, belief, political opinion, culture, language and birth.

(2) It is not unfair discrimination to-

(a) take affirmative action measures consistent with the purpose of this Act; or

(b) distinguish, exclude or prefer any person on the basis of an inherent requirement of a job.

(3) Harassment of an employee is a form of unfair discrimination and is prohibited on any one, or a combination of grounds of unfair discrimination listed in subsection (1).

(2) Any party to a dispute concerning this Chapter, other than an allegation of harassment, may refer the dispute in writing to the CCMA within six months after the act or omission that allegedly constitutes unfair discrimination.

(3) A dispute concerning harassment must be dealt with in terms of the relevant provisions of the Labour Relations Act.

MEMORANDUM ON THE OBJECTS OF THE EMPLOYMENT EQUITY BILL, 1998

The principal object of the Employment Equity Bill, 1998, is to achieve equity in employment through promoting equal opportunities and implementing affirmative action to redress disadvantages experienced by people from designated groups.

The most important proposals contained in the Bill are that-

- all employers take steps to end unfair discrimination in their employment policies and practices;
- unfair discrimination on the grounds of race, gender, sex, pregnancy, marital status, family responsibility, ethnic or social origin, colour, sexual orientation, age, disability, religion, conscience, belief, political opinion, culture, language and birth against employees or job applicants be prohibited;
- medical testing of employees be prohibited unless justified;
- psychometric testing be prohibited unless justified;
- designated employers prepare and implement employment equity plans subsequent to conducting a workforce analysis and consulting with unions and employees;
- employment equity plans contain specific affirmative action measures to achieve the equitable representation of people from designated groups in all occupational categories and levels in the workforce of designated employers;
- all designated employers report to the Department of Labour on their implementation of employment equity;
- a Commission for Employment Equity be established;
- enforcement of employment equity obligations on designated employers takes place by the Labour Inspectorate and the Director-General of the Department of Labour;

- any employer that intends to contract with the State complies with its employment equity obligations; and
- an employee be protected from victimisation for exercising rights conferred by the Bill.

THE DRAFTING PROCESS

This Bill emerged out of an extensive consultation process. This process began with the establishment of the Affirmative Action Policy Development Forum by the Minister of Labour in 1995. This Forum represented the major stakeholders in the area of affirmative action and employment equity, viz. the unions, business, community organisations, disabled people's organisations, women's organisations and non-governmental organisations. When it completed its work, a team of experts was appointed to draft the green paper. The team members included Lady Amos (formerly Ms Valerie Amos), former CEO of the Equal Opportunities Commission (UK), Prof. Paul Benjamin (Cheadle, Thompson & Haysom) (CTH), Ms Urmila Bhoola (CTH), Prof. Halton Cheadle (CTH), Mr Siphso Madhlopha (Madhlopha Attorneys), Ms Thuli Madonsela (Chief Director, Department of Justice), Dr Neva Makgetla (Deputy Director-General, Department of Public Service and Administration, Mr Mpho Makwana (former Director: Equal Opportunities, Department of Labour), Ms Lucia Rayner (Deputy Director: Equal Opportunities, Department of Labour), Jackie Scholtz (State Law Advisers) and Dr Caroline White (University of Natal, Durban, formerly Centre for Policy Studies). This team's efforts led to the publication of the Green Paper on Employment and Occupational Equity on 1 July 1996.

The Minister then appointed a team of legal experts to draft the Employment Equity Bill. This team began its work in February 1997. Its members were Ms Amanda Armstrong (CTH), Ms Urmila Bhoola (CTH), Mr Siphso Madhlopha (Madhlopha Attorneys) and Mr Mzi Yawa (formerly, Department of Labour). Professor Julio Faundez of Warwick University (UK) was seconded to the drafting team by the International Labour Organisation (ILO). The drafters made extensive use of his expertise. Mr Phil Knight advised the drafters on the use of plain language. To assist the Legal Drafting Team in its work, a policy reference group was formed to advise the legal drafters on equity policy matters. The group under the leadership of the Director: Equal Opportunities, Mr Loyiso Mbabane, consisted of Mr Les Kettledas, Mr Jeremy Baskin, Dr Guy Mhone, Ms Lucia Rayner, Ms Tanya Golden, Ms Nokhanya Moerane, Mr Jesse Maluleke, Mr Terence Chauke and Ms Thuli Madonsela. The team completed its work at the end of August 1997.

During September to November 1997 the USAID sponsored inputs from several international experts including Mr Deval Patrick, Mr Kenneth Gage, Ms Ellen Vargas, Mr Joseph Kennedy and Ms Shirley Wilcher. Professor Harish Jain of Canada also provided extensive input through financial assistance of USAID.

The first version of the Bill was released on 1 December 1997. A summit was later held to establish areas of agreement and disagreement and to endeavour to reach agreement as far as the objectives and formulation of the Bill were concerned. The Bill was then tabled at NEDLAC for negotiations. Negotiations took place in March and April 1998 and, as a result, a number of changes were made to the Bill. The subsequent draft was approved by Cabinet in May 1998.

PARLIAMENTARY PROCEDURE

The State Law Advisers and the Department of Labour are of the view that this Bill must be dealt with in accordance with the procedure established by section 75 of the Constitution since it contains no provision to which the procedure set out in section 74 or 76 of the Constitution applies.
